OUTING

Mahlon Stacy, Outing Director, announced that members will have an outing at the Naples Botanical Gardens on December 9th at 9:00 a.m. to find and capture the beautiful handiwork of the gardeners. With the morning sunrise at 7:03, we should still be early enough to capture some of the slanting rays of light entering the garden. Mahlon suggests a variety of lenses... macro, and telephoto can both be used for closeups, and mid-range to capture the overall views. Creating your own light, via flash, macro ring, or reflectors can brighten your shots.

Pick up to 6 of your best shots, 1024 pixels max per side, and send them to Mahlon at dpi-outing@naples.net for inclusion in a slide show at our first in-person meeting in January.

DPI-SIG ART SHOW

Don Columbus, Art Show Co-Director, announced the upcoming DPI-SIG Art Show to be held at the Fort Myers Beach Library for January 2022. Watch for his email with all the details.

2021 FCCC YEAR END DIGITAL RESULTS
CONGRATULATIONS TO THE DPI-SIG WINNERS!

Monochrome Class, Blue Ribbon

Christine Cook – Get My Meaning

Monochrome Class, Yellow Ribbon

Meryl Lorenzo – Monkey Face

Cynthia Taft, DPI-SIG Rep to FCCC, reported that the FCCC Year End Digital Competition results are on the FCCC website at f3c.org. Images in the competition included the 886 images that won ribbons in the three FCCC digital competitions in 2021, including 117 from DPI-SIG members. A total of only 15 ribbons are awarded: First, Second, and Third for each of the five categories (Advanced Color, Beginner Color, Creative, Documentary, and Mono). DPI-SIG had two winners! Christine Cook won a First Place (Blue) ribbon in the Mono category and Meryl Lorenzo won a 3rd Place (Yellow) ribbon also in the Mono category. See their images below. Congratulations!

GLOSSARY TERM

DECEMBER – GLOSSARY TERM: Lab Color Space (CIELAB color space): also referred to as L*a*b* is a color space defined by the International Commission on Illumination (CIE) in 1976. It expresses color as three values: L* for perceptual lightness, and a* and b* for the four unique colors of human vision: red, green, blue, and yellow. Lab Color was intended as a perceptually uniform space, where a given numerical change corresponds to similar perceived change in color. While the LAB space is not truly perceptually uniform, it nevertheless is useful in industry for detecting small differences in color. Lab Color is a more accurate color space, working more like the human eye, being three-dimensional, and covers the entire range of human color perception, or gamut. It's very easy to change from RGB to Lab Color in Adobe Photoshop.

NOVEMBER – GLOSSARY TERM: Kelvin (K): is the base unit of temperature in the International System of Units (SI). Digital cameras and photographic software often use color temperature in K in edit and setup menus. The simple guide is that higher color temperature produces an image with enhanced white and blue hues. The reduction in color temperature produces an image more dominated by reddish, "warmer" colors. As photographers when we talk about warm lighting (or color) for a photo, we are referring to colors in the range of red, orange, and yellow. When we talk about cool lighting (or color) we are talking about colors such as cyan and blue.

PHOTOGRAPHY EXHIBITS, EDUCATION, TIPS & TRICKS
